

C. I. O. OFFERS THREE POINT PEACE PLAN

Would Form Autonomous Department In A. F. of L.

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Committee for Industrial Organization submitted a three-point peace plan today to the American Federation of Labor at their joint peace conference.

The proposal called for establishment of an "autonomous" department within the A. F. of L. to include industrial unions in the mass production, marine, public utilities, service and basic fabricating industries.

Workers in these industries would be organized only on an industrial basis, as opposed to the traditional craft union organization policy of the A. F. of L.

The proposal also called for a national convention of all A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions to ratify the agreement and to work out "necessary rules and regulations to effectuate" it.

All the national and local unions now affiliated with the C. I. O. would be affiliated with the new A. F. of L. department, under the plan.

Adopt Own Constitution

These unions would adopt their own departmental constitutions and elect their own officers. The department, to be known as the C. I. O., would have complete authority in handling the organization of workers in the industries named.

The peace proposal brought a recess of the conference until tomorrow, apparently to give the A. F. of L. delegates time to study the C. I. O. plan.

Joseph Curran, president of the national maritime union, a C. I. O. affiliate, was the first to come out of the conference room. Asked why the conference had recessed after a session of only an hour and a quarter, Curran said:

"You can't expect them (the A. F. of L. committee) to come out of a dead faint and go right on negotiating."

Meet Again Tomorrow

Shortly after today's conference recessed, the A. F. of L. committee issued a statement which said in part:

"The proposal submitted by the C. I. O. is in such broad terms that we are unable to give any statement in respect to the proposal at this time. We sought an explanation of the proposal but were unable to get any helpful information from the committee of the C. I. O. this morning."

"The conference adjourned to meet again tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at which time we anticipate we shall be prepared to issue a statement in response to the proposal of the C. I. O."

The C. I. O. submitted its proposal at the start of the third session of the conference after agreeing to deal with the A. F. of L.'s three-man peace committee headed by George M. Harrison, president of the railway clerks.

The text of the C. I. O. proposal follows:

"1—The American Federation of Labor shall declare as one of its basic policies that the organization of the workers in the mass production, marine, public utilities service

Traps Himself

Baltimore, Oct. 26.—(AP)—William Schlarb, 66, burned to death today, just inches from firemen cutting away a door they couldn't open because his body blocked it.

The man, trapped by flames in a basement, collapsed against its only door. Firemen heard him plead for help and were able to see his legs as they chopped hinges from the door.

Uncle Sam Borrowed Almost Billion From U. S. Wage Earners

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Uncle Sam already has borrowed almost a billion dollars from the nation's wage earners under provisions of the Social Security act, treasury ledgers showed today. The act envisions the building of a huge reserve fund which eventually will aggregate more than $40,000,000,000 if the law remains unchanged.

Special treasury obligations are issued to the reserve fund. Benefits under the old age pension and unemployment compensation programs are to be paid from it.

In treasury practice, tax collection under the security act flow into the government's general fund or pool of ready cash. These collections are spent for day-to-day government operations.

Announces Wedding

Hollywood, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Virginia Bruce, widow of John Gilbert, said today she and J. Walter Ruben, director, would be married here some time during the Christmas season.

Ruben, divorced last year from Mildred Stephenson Ruben, and the blonde Miss Bruce have been acquainted several years. Their romance developed in the filming of a current picture (The Bad Man of Brimstone).

SALTIEL HOPES TO END MARRIAGE LAW EVASIONS

Exam Would Be Necessary For Out State Ceremonies

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Rep. Edward P. Saltiel worked today on a plan to plug up the loopholes in the new hygienic marriage law he sponsored.

Striking at the booming Illinois business in the marriage mills of neighboring states, Saltiel said he was drafting an amendment to make physical examinations a prerequisite to all marriages recognized in Illinois, regardless of where they are performed.

The Chicago Republican said he had "greatly underestimated" the extent of out-of-state elopements in the 1937 physical examination law has occasioned.

"I knew there were a certain percentage of persons who would place convenience above the health of their children," he asserted, "but never suspected it would be so large."

Under the proposed plan, Illinois couples planning out-of-state marriages first would be required to file with the clerk in the counties in which they reside, a notice of intention to wed and a physician's certificate showing freedom from venereal diseases. The Saltiel act makes certificates necessary for weddings in Illinois.

Saw Amendment Needed

"I have been thinking of such an amendment for some time," Saltiel said, "and am considering the feasibility of asking Governor Horner to include it in any call he might have in mind for a special session." In any event, the Chicagoan said he planned to try for such an amendment before the

PURSE SNATCHER ATTACKS NURSE HERE LAST NIGHT

Police were called to the neighborhood of Tenth street and Peoria avenue at 7:30 last evening in response to a report that Mrs. E. A. Rawley, nurse at the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital, who was walking to her home, had been assaulted by a strange young man, robbery being the apparent motive. The entire neighborhood was subjected to a careful search by the police, but no trace of the bold purse snatcher could be found.

According to the police report, Mrs. Rawley had passed Tenth street and was walking south, when suddenly her eyes were covered by the hands of the youth, who threw her to the ground as he grasped her purse. She screamed loudly and her assailant ran north on Peoria avenue, then west on Tenth street, she told the officers. She took the police to the location where she was stopped, and the officers recovered the purse, which had not been opened, and her glasses. In the brief scuffle the purse snatcher wrenched the glasses from Mrs. Rawley's head and in so doing cut the side of her nose.

Her screams as she was thrown to the ground attracted the attention of neighbors who came to her rescue and summoned the officers. Mrs. Rawley stated that she observed a young man leaning against a post at Seventh street and Peoria avenue as she walked south to her home, and believed that he followed her and attempted to wrest her purse from her.

Uncle Sam Borrowed Almost Billion From U. S. Wage Earners

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Against these collections, the treasury deposits the special obligations in reserve accounts. These obligations in effect are promises to pay off old age and unemployment benefits.

The obligations thus far have aggregated $916,000,000 and the treasury is indebted to the country's workers in that amount.

President Roosevelt, noting in his revised budget message effects of the security law and the parallel railroad retirement act, said a total of $1,075,000,000 in special reserve account obligations would be issued during this fiscal year.

LEE SPORTSMEN PERFECT PLANS FOR ORGANIZING

Propose Restocking Rock River, Ending Illegal Fishing

An enthusiastic gathering of Lee county sportsmen was held last evening at the city hall at which time plans were made for the perfection of an organization whose objective will be to promote the restocking of streams in the county. Several of the sportsmen expressed their opinions during the meeting which was presided over by Vernon Schrock.

The elimination of alleged illegal fishing in Rock river, the restocking of the streams of the county with game fish and co-operation with the representatives of the state conservation department were suggestions offered in the program of the organization which is to be perfected at a later meeting.

A committee consisting of Vincent Slothower, chairman; T. J. Miller, Jr., John Torrens, Charles Heckman and Ralph Covert was named to outline a draft of the plans and purposes of the proposed organization and to call another meeting at which time a unit of sportsmen of Lee county will be perfected.

At the meeting announcement was made of the co-operation of Senator George C. Dixon in the proposed program. Senator Dixon was unable to be present but sent word of progress being made toward improving fishing conditions in Rock river. In a letter to Senator Dixon, Pete J. Erio, chief inspector of the Illinois department of conservation, was quoted as saying:

"We fully expect to do some restocking of the Rock river during the winter or in the spring months, just as soon as the sealing of the river for the removal of rough fish can be completed. We will do all we can to see that conditions in the Rock river are improved from time to time."

Dixon at the present time is without a sportsmen's organization and for several seasons the restocking of Rock river has been neglected. One of the plans of the proposed organization calls for an annual restocking program. Each member of the organization is to observe any violation of the state game code in any Lee county stream and make a report to Deputy Inspector Charles Duis.

At a meeting to be held in the near future, it is anticipated that any sportsman in Lee county who is interested in the restocking of streams and propagation of fish,

Canning Factory For Polo Talked

Polo may have a canning factory in 1938.

The center of a large trade area, Polo is ideally situated for a factory to can sweet corn, peas, and other produce for packing. At an interview between owners of land on the outskirts of Polo, and a Sterling canning factory representative, the possibility of leasing a 10 acre tract was discussed. If the tract were to contain as much as 16 acres the firm would consider taking an option on it.

The agent indicated that if negotiations are completed a canning factory may be erected this fall and ready for operations next spring. Nearby farmers are being contacted regarding the project.

Distributor For Race Publication Shot By Gunman

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Nicholas Basso, a distributor for a racing publication, was shot to death last night by a gunman in a west side tavern.

Basso was at the bar with three friends when the slayer entered. After eyeing him intently, the stranger walked up to Basso. "Are you looking for me?" Basso asked. "Yes," the man replied, cursed and then fired one bullet which pierced Basso's heart. The slayer escaped.

Police questioned witnesses and several of Basso's friends in an effort to establish a motive.

Hit and Run Bossy

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 26.—(AP)—August J. Runge of Calumet City, Ill., asked police assistance today in finding the owner of a hit-and-run cow.

He wants to collect, he said, for damage done to a fender when the cow ran into his car while he was driving near Hammond last night. His difficulty, he explained, is finding the owner of the cow, which disappeared in a prairie.

INSULIN PILLS FORECAST NEW DIABETES CURE

No Injections Would Be Necessary For Sufferers

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A new method of treating diabetes, with insulin swallowed in small tablets instead of by injections with a hypodermic needle, was forecast today before the National Academy of Sciences.

Three University of Rochester physicians, Dr. John R. Murlin, Dr. Lawrence E. Young and Dr. William A. Phillips, announced they had successfully treated some human beings and dogs, suffering from diabetes, with the new solid preparation.

The compound is composed of insulin and heptyl-resorcinol. The resorcinol acts as an emulsifier to clean fat from the linings of the stomach and intestines by making it more soluble in water than it normally is.

The University of Rochester experiments previously had shown that insulin can be absorbed through the stomach and intestines and then acts in the ordinary way to burn up the excess sugar in the blood which produces diabetes. Presence of fats, acid conditions, and the enzyme pepsin prevented this absorption, however.

The next step, now nearing completion in tests on human beings, was the addition of the resorcinol to neutralize the pepsin, produce an alkaline condition and emulsify the fat in order to clean up the digestive tract for entrance of the insulin.

Trials on the human diabetes sufferers enable the Rochester men to "state with certainty," Dr. Murlin said, that "insulin can be absorbed in sufficient amounts to produce abrupt changes in blood sugar."

DIXONITES ARE SENTENCED TO VANDALIA FARM

Anthony Mickevich, 48, local tailor, was sentenced to the state work farm at Vandalia for a period of 60 days and his state motor license was revoked for one year, when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition before Judge Leon A. Zick in the county court today.

The information was signed by State Officer Robert Canode of Oregon, who arrested Mickevich Sunday evening about 8:30, following an automobile crash west of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway, near the Borden condorsery.

Mickevich admitted in court that he had been arrested on a similar charge about six years ago when he paid a fine on a city charge.

Virgil Klotz, 24, of this city, was sentenced to a one-year term at the state work farm at Vandalia when he pleaded guilty to an information charging him with the issuance of checks to defraud. State's Attorney Edward Jones recommended a substantial sentence to eliminate the practice of issuing worthless and forged checks.

In imposing sentence, Judge Zick admonished Klotz of the seriousness of the offense, stating that leniency had been shown in making his offense a misdemeanor, when in reality he committed a felony in the forging of names to checks.

Leo Dempewolf was arraigned before the court and entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney, A. G. Harris, the information charging him with issuing checks to defraud. At the suggestion of State's Attorney Jones, bond was fixed in the sum of $1,000 and Attorney Harris sought to have the amount reduced to $500, which action was overruled by the court and Dempewolf was returned to the county jail.

F. E. Kruesi, Former Dixonite, Promoted

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Middle West Corporation, big utility organization, today announced the resignation of E. A. Olsen as director and as vice president and director of Middle West Service Company, a non-utility subsidiary.

F. E. Kruesi, vice president of Middle West Service, was elected to the newly created office of executive vice president in charge of the subsidiary's operations.

George VI Pledges Great Britain to Attempts to Retrieve World Peace

French Angered By Pirate Attacks On Ships

London, Oct. 26.—(AP)—King George VI, an earnest figure in the splendid trappings of Britain's ancient majesty, pledged his government today to attempt to restore peace to China and Spain.

At the same time, the monarch promised air raid protection for all England and forecast more help for England's needy families.

He opened his first parliament from the throne dais in the somber House of Lords—with Queen Elizabeth in a chair of state at his side—and concluded with this unusual benediction:

"I pray that under the blessings of Almighty God the outcome of your deliberations may advance the happiness and well being of my people and the peace of the world."

Usually the king merely invokes a divine blessing on Parliament's "labors." Otherwise, however, the speech delivered to the assembled members of parliament in the musty grandeur of the House of Lords heaved to the usual formula.

It began with: My relations with foreign powers—continue to be friendly.

It told the legislators the monarch had invited Belgium's King Leopold to visit him in November and Rumania's King Carol next spring.

Deals With War

Then it dealt with the spectacle of war on two continents.

"My ministers have followed with growing concern the continuance of conflict in Spain. It is their aim to do everything which lies in their power to assist toward restoration of peace among the Spanish people."

"They believe a strict application of the international policy of non-intervention in Spain will materially contribute to this end," the king declared.

"The position in the Far East will continue to engage the earnest attention of my government who will persist in their policy of attempting to bring about a settlement."

REFRIGERATION DISCOVERED AS CURB ON CANCER

Experiments on Human Beings Offer Hope of Cure

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A new attack on cancer by use of refrigeration, on the principle that wild growth of this disease may be curbed the same as growth of plants and some animals is stunted by cold, was announced to the American College of Surgeons today.

The experiments were all on human beings. Among them one case of "hibernation" of a cancer was produced. Under refrigeration this particular cancer has disappeared although the patient's condition had been pronounced "hopeless."

New Point of View

The refrigeration technique was announced as "a new point of view" by Temple Pay, M. D., professor and head of the department of neurology and neuro-surgery and George C. Henny, M. D., director of the department of physics, Temple University School of Medicine, at Philadelphia.

The type of cancer refrigerated is metastasizing carcinoma. It is the kind which spreads from one part of the body to another. It is one of the most dangerous.

The clue to the refrigeration idea came from noting that this kind of cancer was mostly confined to the warmer "segments" of the human body. The breast, for example, is warmer than the lower legs and also has more of this cancer.

Dr. Henny, the physicist, devised instruments which could be placed on the human body to lower temperature in specific regions.

REMODELING BUILDING

Mrs. Z. W. Moss and her sister, Mrs. John M. Stager, of Sterling are supervising the work of remodeling the second floor of the Stager building at 107-109 E. First street. There are four large rooms, all of which are being completely renovated with hardwood floors, new plaster and wallpaper. According to announcement today the rooms may be rented together or separately for office, studios or as beauty parlors. The rooms are expected to be ready for occupancy by Nov. 1. Inquiries for rental may be made at Chester Barriage radio store, 109 E. First street.

ENDS SERVICES HERE

Judge Leon A. Zick of Oregon, who has presided in the Lee county court since the sudden passing of Judge William L. Leech, will conclude his services in Dixon next Friday. Judge Harry Ludens of Sterling, county judge of White-stead county, has consented to spend two days in Dixon in the county court each week, and will preside next Tuesday. Judge Zick has been serving in the county courts of Lee, Ogle and Stephenson counties for several months, and expects to devote considerable of his time to his candidacy on the Republican ticket for the circuit judgeship in the 15th judicial district.

FIND ESCAPED PAIR

Jack Sharkey of the Dixon state hospital staff, brought two boys to the police station this morning for investigation, upon his return from Nelson where the pair had been reported as escaped patients from the local institution. Chief Van Bibber questioned the pair and learned that they were Elmer Cooper, 19, and Link Ramboough, 17, who had escaped from a state institution at Woodward, Iowa, a few days ago. Communicating with the superintendent of the institution, Chief Van Bibber learned that they had escaped several times and the official stated that they would not be returned from Dixon, whereupon both boys were escorted outside Dixon's city limits by the police.

TALLEYRAND IS FOUND DEAD AT HOME IN PARIS

Paris, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The death of the Duke of Talleyrand in his Paris home on Monday was announced today.

The Duke, 78, was married to Anna Gould, daughter of the late Jay Gould, after her divorce from Count Boni de Castellane.

Servants said they found the head of the famous family dead in his bed Monday morning. Physicians said death was caused by a heart attack.

The duke only recently had returned with the duchess from their chateau, Le Marais, near Saint Germain, in the valley of the Seine. He was survived by the duchess and one daughter, Helene.

Would Rather Die

Pittsfield, N. H., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Lewis F. Leduc, 16, was dead today because he didn't want to go to school.

The boy's father, John, told authorities Lewis went to his room last night after an argument with his parents about continuing his classes in high school. A short time later, the father reported, a rifle shot was heard. Lewis died instantly—a bullet through his brain.

APOLOGY FOR SHOOTING OF BRITON GIVEN

Japanese Gain Near Shanghai, Lose On North Front

London, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Koki Hirota handed an official apology to the British ambassador at Tokyo today for the machine gun death of a British soldier at Shanghai last Sunday.

Britain was informed Japan would deal suitably with the responsible persons and offered to compensate for damage to the British post in which the soldier was killed. Japan termed the shooting "accidental."

OCCUPY TAZANG

Shanghai, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Japanese forces today occupied Tazang, a key Chinese defense position five miles north of Shanghai, and fought their way to several points on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad.

Severing the railway made Chinese withdrawal from Chapei and Kiangwan impossible along that route. Chapei, on the northern border of the international settlement, and Kiangwan, north of Shanghai, have been chief centers of Chinese resistance.

The Japanese advance followed air and artillery bombardments which ploughed up acres of barbed wire entanglements and levelled bitterly-contested Tazang and other villages.

A Chinese spokesman announced "strategic withdrawal" from Miaohong because of developments at Tazang.

Chinese were expected to form new defense lines on a triangle between the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow railroads immediately facing the international settlement sector occupied by United States marines.

Four Japanese warships bombarded Quemoy Island, off the south China coast of Amoy, while Japanese airplanes raided Amoy port. Japanese marines attempted a landing at the fort.

Chinese reported they had reversed the tide of battle in the north province of Shantung. The reports were that Chinese had crossed the Tuhai river, recaptured Yucheng, and attacked Japanese positions further north.

Japanese artillery pounded sections of the Chinese Shanai province front, but Japanese officials at Peiping were unable to report gains.

NOT OPTIMISTIC ON ENACTING ALL F. D. R. PROGRAM

Seven Reasons Cited For Belief Some Must Wait

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Legislators returning to prepare for the special congressional session are none too optimistic that they can enact all of President Roosevelt's program before January.

They cited these factors today in support of their contention:

1. Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the House agricultural committee has declined to predict enactment of a farm bill at the special session.

2. Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) of the Senate agriculture committee has said a farm bill would not be ready for the Senate before December.

3. Dissatisfaction with the wage and hour bill voiced recently by the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization has given opponents a rallying point.

4. The anti-lynching bill, scheduled for Senate consideration after disposition of farm legislation, may be the center of a prolonged battle even if southerners do not filibuster against it.

5. Bills to strengthen the anti-trust laws against monopolies have not been introduced.

6. House hearings on a bill to set up regional power and planning agencies similar to TVA have been delayed.

7. The House has split the government reorganization program into four measures and passed two of them. The Senate committee has insisted on handling it in one bill.

SECOND RANSOM NOTE IS FOUND

Blue Island Woman Gets Threatening Letter Today

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Evening American said today a second Ross ransom bill had been found.

It said the $10 bill—identified as part of the $50,000 in currency paid to the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross in a vain attempt to obtain his release—was discovered by Frank H. Stremmel, an employee of the association of American railroads.

The first ransom bill—also of $10 denomination—was turned over to Federal agents last Thursday by Mrs. Clara Ludwig, a resident of suburban Blue Island.

D. M. Ladd, chief of Chicago's G-man staff, declined to comment.

Stremmel was quoted as saying he received the bill when he cashed a check yesterday noon at Goldblatt's department store in the loop but did not know he had it until he checked the serial number, G27-888008A, against a published list of the numbers on the Ross ransom money.

ted the insurgents seized the woods yesterday but asserted "our resistance was most tenacious."

Reports from insurgent general headquarters at Salamanca said the insurgents captured a quantity of arms and ammunition and a field kitchen after the government troops retired, leaving more than 100 dead.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's commanders reported government entrenchments around the agricultural school of University City, on Madrid's northwestern edge, had been destroyed with mines.

(Advices from Madrid told of a renewal of air raids on the former Republican capital after a respite of several months. Two insurgent planes swooped out of low-hanging clouds yesterday and sprayed streets with their machine guns.

(The planes quickly vanished in the clouds before anti-aircraft gunners opened fire. No one was believed wounded.)

The insurgent communists reported extensive aerial bombardment of the Catalan coast of northeast Spain.

The insurgents announced that all civil banking services had been re-established in Asturias province, conquered last week with the fall of Gijon. Postal and customs offices were reported functioning.

The attack came less than 48 hours after a seaplane had sunk the French freighter Oued Mellah in the northern Mediterranean.

The attacking planes were reported to have been marked with black maltese crosses which the Spanish republican embassy at Paris said was the insignia of the Spanish insurgent air force.

An unofficial and unconfirmed report said another French freighter had been sunk at Barcelona.

Famous Puppet Show To Exhibit Here November 5

One of the most famous marionette shows of the United States, the C. Ray Smith's famous Olvera Street puppets, will exhibit here at the Dixon high school auditorium, at 7:30 p. m. Friday, November 5, under the auspices of the high school Parent-Teacher association.

The C. Ray Smith troupe will present the immortal fairy tale by Robert Browning, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," with the added feature, a continental variety show, to be given in the evening, and a matinee entitled, "Inside the Magic Mountain."

The cast of puppets in the C. Ray Smith show exceeds 100 and includes several movie personalities, such as Shirley Temple, Mickey Mouse, and others particularly pleasing to children.

The stage and lighting effects of the show are extremely interesting and produces an unusually life-like effect in the complexion and motions of the marionette actors and actresses. The manipulators will explain the workings of the marionettes to the audience.

FORMER DIXON BOY IS TO BE MARRIED—

Chicago Herald-Examiner—Jack Llewellyn and Marc Reeds have invitations out for a party Sunday afternoon at their Astor street apartment for Miriam Hart and Fred D. Stone, Jr., who are to be married next month. Their engagement was announced recently by Miriam's mother, Mrs. Adelia Mendenhall Hart of East End avenue.

Young Mr. Stone is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Fred D. Stone of Evanston. His father will officiate at the wedding, which is to take place the evening of November 19 in Bond chapel, on the University of Chicago campus. Following her graduation from Kenwood-Loring school, Miss Hart attended the University of Wisconsin. Her fiancé received his college education at Northwestern and the University of Illinois.

Note: The Fred D. Stone, Jr., son of a former pastor of the Methodist church in Dixon, was known as Denton Stone, to avoid confusion with his father's name, when he lived here as a boy.

Woman's Club Has Annual Guest Day, Over 100 Present

Saturday afternoon was annual guest day of the Dixon Woman's club and more than 100 members and guests were assembled.

Mrs. B. J. Frazer, chairman of the Music and Radio department presented little Miss Joan Smith who delighted her audience with two violin solos, "Spanish Dance" Merzkowsky and "Londonderry Air" which were beautifully executed. Her piano solos "Edelweiss," "Johanning," and "Kinderstuck" by Mendelssohn reflected the ability and training of the promising young artist and much credit is due to Mrs. Merton Ransom, Miss Joan's aunt who has been her teacher and was her able accompanist.

The program was under the direction of the literature and library extension department with Mrs. Emma Eichler chairman. Mrs. Eichler announced the book reviews would be continued this year. The first one of this season to be given by Mrs. W. W. Roat on Monday afternoon, November 8 at St. Luke's Episcopal church, also that the story hour would be continued. She then presented R. H. Harridge who introduced the speaker, Dr. O. F. Jordan, pastor of Community church of Park Ridge.

Dr. Jordan who calls himself a country parson, gave a most interesting "Book Talk," a brief resume of some twelve or more books of the year. Fiction, non-fiction and religion weaving them into some philosophy of life. Some of the books were "Northwest Passage," Kenneth Roberts; "Mice and Men," John Steinbeck; "Katrina," Sally Salminen; "They Came Like Swallows," William Maxwell; "The Outward Room," Miller Brand; "Shining Scabbard," R. C. Hutchinson; "The Croquet Player," H. G. Wells; "Bread and Wine," Ignazio Silone; "Animal Treasure," Sanderson; "How to Win Friends and Influence People," Dale Carnegie; and "The Return to Religion" Henry C. Lincoln.

Dr. Jordan expressed his belief that the time is coming soon when books again will take their rightful place in shaping public opinion. At the close of the program, refreshments were served. Mrs. O. F. Goeke and Mrs. D. G. Palmer, both past presidents of the club, poured at the nicely appointed tea table.

The hostesses were Mrs. L. E. Sharpe, chairman; Miss Esther Barton, Mrs. Ray Collins, Mrs. Lissette Drach, Mrs. Joseph Graff, Mrs. F. A. Hanson, Mrs. Herbert Hoon, Mrs. Gerald Jones, Mrs. Frank Kingsley, Mrs. Arthur Morris, Mrs. I. B. Potter, Mrs. Frank Robinson, Mrs. Donald Raymond, Mrs. F. L. Trautwein.

MRS. LANCASTER ENTERTAINS—

IDEAL CLUB WILL MEET WEDNESDAY—

The Ideal club will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 P. M. with Mrs. Jacob Wohnke, 225 Lincoln Way.

Foster Thompson Entertains for Sixth Birthday

Foster Thompson, celebrated his sixth birthday Saturday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Thompson, where he entertained ten of his school friends.

The home was gayly decorated with the regular orange and black motifs of pumpkins, witches and cats. The center piece for the dining room table was a checkerboard cake which was prettily decorated in the Halloween colors including pumpkins and black cats in chocolate. There were orange tapers, fastened at the corners of the table with black cats. Balloons formed much of the decorations as well.

After playing many games and enjoying much fun together, the little folks gathered in the dining room where they enjoyed the tempting refreshments. Foster received many pretty gifts from his friends, who wished him a happy birthday. Two guests namely, Janell and Bobbie Matheson were unable to attend.

Those in attendance at the party were: Jane Austin, Phyllis Barnhart, Virginia Crom, Rosemary Murphy, Martha McNichols, Carl Buchner, Charles Lester, Don Memler and Merrill Richards Foster's baby cousin, Tommy Holmes.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

DINNER-LECTURE

"Three Great Religious Pictures and Their Messages" will be the title of a stereopticon lecture by Rev. Herbert J. Doran this evening at the fellowship dinner at the First Presbyterian church, Third street at Galena. Mrs. W. C. Kleevald will sing. Following the fellowship program, the group will divide into hobby and study classes which will include: A play period for children, amateur photography as a hobby, gardening and home landscaping, principles of art appreciation, child care and training, and the Bible as English literature.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who are not attending church elsewhere to attend these fellowship dinners and "Night College." This evening's meeting will be the second of a series of five. The scramble supper will be served promptly at 6:30. Bring food to pass equal to the appetites of your own family. Single persons for whom it is not convenient to bring food may make a contribution to the coffee fund instead. Table service will be furnished and washing for five cents per person, or you may bring your own if you prefer. No other invitation than this is needed, if you are interested in this program. Bring your family and your dinner and enjoy a period of fellowship. Members of the congregation are urged to bring friends as their guests. Those who are unable to come for the dinner at 6:30 may feel free to attend the night classes at 8 p. m.

REVIVAL NEWS
The revival at the Brethren church last night was a delightful service with a large delegation and a fine spirit. The pep songs, "Everybody Ought to Love Jesus," "It's a Grand Thing to Be Saved" and "Come Over on the Sunny Side," stirred the large congregation, put joy in their hearts, and lifted their souls. Mrs. Paul Thompson had a story that delighted the boys and girls who have been such a help in the revival. The evangelist plays the trombone which adds to the spirit of the service. The fine co-operation of the Christian people of the city has been much appreciated and as it should be. Everyone enjoys the Krug Sisters quartet and last night was no exception to the rule as they sang, "What Will You Do With Jesus?"

A present-day application was made of a text found in Isaiah 28:20, "For the bed is shorter than a man can stretch himself on it; and the covering narrower than he can wrap himself in it." As the prophet of God was warning his people of the wrong doings of their lives which was taking away their joys, privileges and opportunities in likening it unto an uncomfortable bed, so the evangelist last night told how disorders in home life, social functions, and even churches, destroy life, vitality, bringing sorrow, grief and trouble, and discomfort, leaving those who engage in sin tired, weary and unrested as would an uncomfortable bed. Mr. Thompson told of the unrest in the world, everybody in a hurry but not knowing where they are going, and this unrest is largely due to lack of confidence concerning the spiritual values of life which not only determine one's usefulness in life but determines their eternal destiny. Hope, salvation and Christian living was held up by the evangelist as the cure which brings comfort, ease and gives the Christian hope, faith and trust which everyone needs.

The business and professional men of the city have been invited to attend tonight as guests, and a great service has been planned. Dixon is blessed with business men of great ideals and business principles which have won the respect of a large community reaching out many miles from our city, and more appreciation should be shown our good, courteous business and professional men. Their presence tonight will be appreciated.

BOARD URGES WPA TO USE PAROLED CONVICTS IN WORK

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 25—(AP)—A subcommittee of the state board of pardons and paroles yesterday urged directors of federal works and other projects to employ paroled convicts where possible, pointing out that 250 convicts who have won paroles were retained in prison because employment was unavailable.

In Chicago, Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, said there was "no reason in the world" why parolees should not be employed in his department if they were on relief rolls. He said the force already included some paroled convicts.

However, Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission and selecting agent for the federal civilian conservation corps, cited a federal regulation prohibiting anyone under sentence for a crime from being admitted to the CCC.

The plea in behalf of the parolees was made by John Landesco and Delmar Darrah of the parole board as they started hearing appeals for parolees. Landesco said the board was "protecting society" by insisting parolees have jobs before their release.

LASALLE MAN WINS

Chicago, Oct. 26—(AP)—William A. Bartlett, 48, a real estate dealer, was served yesterday with a court attachment intended to compel him to pay a $2,869 judgment to Maurice Flynn, former middleweight boxer, or go to jail.

Flynn, owner of a LaSalle, Ill., restaurant, won the judgment before a jury in Chicago in 1935. He testified Bartlett caused him to invest in property at Glen Ellyn by misrepresentation.

The attachment was served on Bartlett as he left the courtroom where a hearing was in progress on a claim by his former wife that he was $1,800 in arrears on a $15,000 alimony settlement.

Ban Coughlin's Articles Until Given Freedom

Detroit, Oct. 26—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin will write no more articles for the weekly publication "Social Justice," its newly appointed editor, Walter Baertschi, of Toledo, said today until "it is determined whether he can speak his own mind or not."

Boertschi, Father Coughlin's chief lieutenant in the National Union for Social Justice, announced his appointment to the editorship of the publication today.

At the same time he announced formation of an organization, to be known as the Committee of One Million Christians, which will work to bring about Father Coughlin's return to the radio.

The Royal Oak Priest recently cancelled a scheduled series of radio addresses after the most Rev. Edward Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit, said the radio addresses would have to be submitted to him in advance for approval.

THE DIXON STATE HOSPITAL

An editorial writer in a Chicago Sunday newspaper deplores the escape of eight patients in three days from the Dixon State Hospital and blames it on political appointment of officials and employees in the state institutions.

He does not know that the principal trouble is that Chicago courts commit patients with violent and criminal tendencies to the Dixon State Hospital when they should be sent some place where they could be properly taken care of. The Dixon institution is not a prison. There are no walls around it. The Dixon State Hospital was designed to treat sick wards of the state rather than to restrain and imprison the type of individual so often sent here by the Cook County courts.

CAMPAIGN PROMISES AND 'COON HOUNDS

The most stimulating little story of the fall has to do with the politician down in Kentucky who got into a jam with the authorities for promising too much to the voters.

This man was running for his party's nomination for sheriff. As the backbone of his campaign platform he vowed that, if elected, he would not collect the dog tax on 'coon hounds—which, considering the widespread ownership of 'coon dogs in his bailiwick, was calculated to appeal to everybody.

But a circuit judge stepped in and ruled that this was an attempt to bribe the electorate. For that reason, the judge ruled the candidate off the ballot and brought his campaign to an inglorious conclusion.

To the baffled candidate, to say nothing of the 'coon dog owners of Kentucky, one must extend sympathy. But it is impossible to avoid a little dreamy speculation about the revolution that would be worked in American politics if this circuit judge's ruling should be applied to all candidates for office, high and low.

Promising everybody everything is the oldest standby of our campaigns. Everyone does it. The Kentuckian, limiting himself to one direct appeal to the 'coon dog vote, seems to have been pretty moderate. If a candidate can't offer special privileges to different groups of voters, how is any American ever to run for anything?

Take the congressman, for example. He has to promise things: a new postoffice, or an appropriation for dredging, straightening and beautifying Mud creek, or an extra share of the relief allowance for his district. Such promises are his stock in trade. How could he live without them?

Or—to ascend to more rarefied air—consider the presidential candidate. Boiled down, his platform usually amounts to just about this: elect me and I will see that you are prosperous and happy, that the wolf stays far from your door, that foreign peace and domestic order reign, that your taxes will be reduced and your business flourish. My opponent is too unworthy and untrustworthy to give you these things, but I—I will be the fountainhead of all good things.

Outlaw campaign promises, and you would immobilize a good percentage of all our presidential candidates—past, present and to come. The situation is dreadful to contemplate.

But we might, just possibly, live through it. We might be able to struggle through to an order of things in which candidates offered themselves to the electorate on the basis of principles, not promises; in which we elected men not because of what they were going to get for us, but because of how they were going to guide our efforts to help ourselves.

The transition period would be bewildering, but in the end we ought to have a much saner and healthier political life.

TESTING AGREEMENTS

International agreements, like most other human acts, are to be judged by the fruits; so the world will have to wait a little while to learn whether the most recent volunteer-withdrawal scheme is really going to give the Spanish civil war back to the people of Spain.

The reason why no such agreement can be accepted at its face value until its actual fruits can be examined is, of course, the perfectly obvious fact that the foreign powers involved are not primarily interested in getting the volunteers out of Spain. They are chiefly concerned with seeing to it that one side or the other gets some advantage out of the deal. It is a safe bet that if they can work this new withdrawal agreement to provide such an advantage they will do it.

So we can only wait and see . . . while Spain continues to suffer her long agony of a war which half of Europe is helping to keep alive.

INSULL'S REFUND

Samuel Insull would probably be one of the last men to agree with President Roosevelt about anything. Yet Mr. Insull must have moments in which he can thoroughly understand Mr. Roosevelt's recent remarks about lawyers.

Back in 1928, Mr. Insull felt that his income tax was too high. He hired lawyers to fight for a refund. The lawyers fought and the government, at long last, refunded, handing back the sum of $21,016.

But Mr. Insull does not benefit by it. The money goes in fees to the lawyers and income tax experts who got the refund for him.

DOGS FOR SALE

With wars, crime, debts and taxes the old world seems a pretty gloomy place until something like the Fredericksburg, Va., dog auction comes along to restore faith in man.

The custom of selling at public auction dogs of all values and breeds, originated in colonial days and has continued to the present time. Many were the tears as owners parted with beloved pets for a few much-needed dollars.

But best news was the reaction of purchasers. Almost without exception they not only returned the pets but allowed the owner to keep the money from the sale. From a New York broker came an offer by wire, to buy and return the "coon dog" of a lonely hill farmer who parted with his pal for $6 he "just had to have."

This is good news. When the inherent generosity of people refuses to be submerged in a maelstrom of international and domestic difficulties, there is little cause for worry about the future.

Selwyn Theatre

RODENT BROTHERHOOD

Relative to "Brother Rat," George Abbott's college comedy, current attraction at the Selwyn Theatre, the title at first plunged its sponsors into a state of ponder over the possibility of its suggesting to the layman that it was a gangster opus, which it certainly is not. The scene is laid at the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va., a military college frequently referred to as the "West Point of the South." Freshmen there are known as "Rats" and, to their classmates, are "Brother Rats." That for that.

Those who wrote it should know what they have writ, for John Monks, Jr., and Fred F. Finklehoffe are "Brother Rats" of the class of 1932. Other distinguished Rats among the alumni are Admiral Byrd and Jack Holt, the he-man movie-star. Through three acts and seven scenes, the comedy concerns the activities of the boys and the faculty, all of which are promised to have a mirthful effect on the eavesdropper.

The cast includes the following players: Florence Sundstrom, Marie Brown, Katherine Murphy, Lora Rogers, Edwin L. Phillips, Tom Elwell, Paul Ballantyne, Owen Martin, Roger Hewlett, William Tracy, Frank Camp and others.

Shrimp Tagging Is Undertaken By U. S. Government

Shrimp tagging is the latest job undertaken by the United States government bureau of fisheries, and the field of operations is the Atlantic coast and up and down the Gulf of Mexico.

The game consists of tagging the shrimp and trying to catch them a few months later to locate the wintering grounds and general movements of the shrimp.

The shrimp, after tagging, are released between Cape Hatteras and Brunswick, Ga. The department hopes to ascertain the migration of shrimp for the benefit of fishermen who seek winter sports in the deep seas off South Carolina, Georgia and northern Florida.

AP Writer

By EDDIE BRIETZ
New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Don't look now, but a southern and a mid-western college are flirting with Doug Dashiell, hustling young head coach of the U. of Nevada. Each offers a three-year contract. . . . Yep, Doug is a-listening. . . . Sports scribes in the deep south are beating loud tom-toms to land Frank (Bruiser) Kinard, U. of Mississippi tackle; Walter Mayberry, Florida half-back; and Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia center, on the AP All-America. . . . Rival coaches are lending a hand too, so the lads must be pretty near tops. . . . This week's feed box special is Yale over Dartmouth. . . . Take it or leave it.

MINNESOTA AND IRISH BATTLE ON TRAIL BACK

Both Attempting To Regain Prestige Of Other Days

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Minnesota and Notre Dame will be fighting Saturday for the right-of-way on "the road back".

Their battle at Minneapolis, expected to attract 65,000 spectators, may be one of the most stubbornly fought games of the season, for defeat would smash to bits the hopes of both elevens to regain national prestige lost through slow starts this year.

Both teams are on the victory trail, Minnesota as a result of its decisive win over Michigan and Notre Dame through its fighting, last-period conquest of Navy. Minnesota, which went through a long drill featured by passing and punting formations yesterday, is favored to win.

Ranking next to the Irish-Gopher battle in interest will be the Northwestern-Wisconsin clash at Madison. The Wildcats hope to take their defeat by Ohio State out on the Badgers, but Wisconsin threw a scare into the Lynn Waldorf team last year and may do it again. Northwestern studies movies of its game with the Buckeyes yesterday as Wisconsin worked on new pass plays.

Seeks More Power
Michigan sought more power on offense in preparation for Illinois. Dave Strong, former Illinois quarterback now a Michigan student, placed the freshmen to a 13 to 7 victory over the Wolverine second and third string teams. Illinois looked good on offense but weak defensively. Jay Wardley, who will start at a halfback post against Michigan, was impressive both as a passer and runner.

Iowa went through a listless drill and Purdue which will face the Hawkeyes at Lafayette, tried out new plays.

Ohio State's reserves ran through a series of Chicago plays in a short session. Chicago worked on defense. Coach Bo McMillin, downcast because of the number of injured men on his squad, looked at a schedule of remaining games for his Hoosiers and bluntly remarked: "Another Indiana victory this season will be an upset." Indiana meet Nebraska Saturday.

Chicago Gridiron Fans Anxious To See Santa Clara

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Gridiron fans of Chicago apparently are anxious to get a close-up view of the Santa Clara Broncos, one of the few surviving undefeated and untied football teams in the nation. The California eleven will oppose Marquette University of Milwaukee Saturday at Soldier Field and approximately 40,000 fans are expected to be on hand. E. I. Kelly, director of arrangements for the game, said the advance ticket sale had reached a total of 20,000.

Santa Clara had won four straight games and is coached by Lawrence (Buck) Shaw, former Notre Dame tackle.

MICHIGAN IS HOMECOMING ILLINOIS FOE

Provides Setting For Honoring Bob Zuppke

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 26.—Another battle in a famous football rivalry will be fought in the Illinois stadium Oct. 30 when Michigan encounters the Fighting Illini in the 23d game between the two teams.

The meeting will have the colorful Illinois homecoming as a background and will also provide an appropriate setting for the Illini to honor Bob Zuppke for his 25th anniversary season as their coach.

The count for all-time games Michigan 14 victories to eight by Illinois, as the Wolverines won all five games played from 1898 to 1906, then were out of the Big Ten until 1917. Since 1919, when they met their first Zuppke-coached team, they have won nine to eight by the Illini and are the only conference opponent which can boast of a margin of victory in a series with the Zuppke elevens. The series with Ohio State is tied and the Zuppke teams have an edge on all other members of the Big Ten.

The Illini have won the last three games with Michigan but the scores have been close. At Ann Arbor in 1934, Lindberg of Illinois kicked goal for the additional point after touchdown but Ward failed. In the Illinois stadium in 1935 Michigan never was able to get the ball into Illinois territory but the Wolverines battled so desperately that Lowell Spurgeon's field goal was the only score. Last year at Ann Arbor Strong's place-kick early in the game proved the deciding factor as both teams scored touchdowns later.

Last Victory 7-6 Affair
Michigan's last victory was another 7-6 affair, won after one of the most thrilling battles ever fought in the stadium although general opinion rated the Wolverines, who had averaged 25 points against Ohio State, Cornell and Chicago, as certain victors by a decisive score. Everhardus place-kicked for the point after the Michigan touchdown but Cummings failed on his try.

Talented toes have always played an important part in deciding Michigan-Illinois struggles. Three Wolverines have kicked field goals to defeat the Illini by 3 to 0 scores, Steketee in 1921, Benny Friedman in 1925 and Gemblis in 1928.

When Gemblis succeeded in 1928, Frosty Peters, Illinois dropkicker, essayed a long goal against the wind but the piskin hit the bar squarely in the center and bounced up and while 85,000 spectators held their breath, then caromed back into the playing field.

At Ann Arbor in 1920, Ralph Fletcher booted a place-kick for the additional point that spelled victory for the Illini when Dunn missed his try after he had made a long gallop for a touchdown.

The most famous of all the Michigan-Illinois games was played when the Memorial Stadium was dedicated in 1924. The Wolverines and Illini, who were co-champions in 1923 when they did not play each other, met before a capacity crowd of 70,000. Most games pass rapidly into the mists of oblivion but even the grade school children of today know how the incomparable Grange sped through the Wolverines for four touchdowns in the first 12 minutes, and how the Wolverines, led gallantly by Herb Steger, battled valiantly but finally succumbed by a score of 39 to 14.

Obtained Revenge
Michigan, having too many home games in its 1925 schedule, elected to play in the Illinois stadium again next year obtained revenge when Benny Friedman's place-kick won a battle on a muddy field.

The complete record of the series (all games at Illinois unless otherwise indicated) are:

1898—Michigan, 12-5 (Detroit).
1899—Michigan, 5-0.
1900—Michigan, 12-0 (Chicago).
1905—Michigan, 33-0.
1906—Michigan, 28-9 (Ann Arbor).
1919—Illinois, 29-7.
1920—Illinois, 7-6 (Ann Arbor).
1921—Michigan, 3-0.
1922—Michigan, 24-0 (Ann Arbor).
1924—Illinois, 39-14.
1925—Michigan, 3-0.
1926—Michigan, 13-0 (Ann Arbor).
1927—Illinois, 14-0.
1928—Michigan, 3-0 (Ann Arbor).
1929—Illinois, 14-0.
1930—Michigan, 15-7 (Ann Arbor).
1931—Michigan, 35-0.
1932—Michigan, 32-0 (Ann Arbor).
1933—Michigan, 7-6.
1934—Illinois, 7-6 (Ann Arbor).

National Semi-Pro Congress Tackles Umpiring Problem

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The national semi-pro baseball congress, which has evolved some sort of order among the thousands of sandlot teams in America has begun to tackle the umpiring problem.

Honus Wagner, commissioner of semi-pro baseball, announced today a national association of umpires was being formed in connection with the arrangements for the 1938 series of sectional tournaments which lead up to the national championship tournament.

Ernest C. Quigley, supervisor of national league umpires, will serve as head of the organization and umpire-in-chief of the national semi-pro congress. Wagner said. The association will include about 10,000 sandlot umpires, each of whom will receive a copy of the semi-pro rules to be published next year. A department will be maintained for interpretation of rules.

"No one has ever paid any attention to sandlot umpires in the past," Wagner said. "The association will mean better umpiring and that in turn, in the future, will result in better officiating in organized baseball. Most of the umpires in the big show originated from the sandlots and they had to struggle along without any aid like the national association will have to offer."

LIKE PLANES—FROM DISTANCE

Valentine, Neb.—(AP)—Chief Kills-a-Horse and other Sioux braves on the Pine Ridge reservation are having their homes "air-mapped" by the soil conservation bureau of the department of agriculture.

The Indians are interested in the equipment which allows the pilots to take pictures from altitudes of 24,000 feet, but none of them have expressed a desire to go aloft. "See plenty from ground," one chief commented.

Marquette-Santa Clara

Chicago will be the scene of one of the outstanding intersectional football battles of the year next Saturday, Oct. 30, when Coach Paddy Driscoll's Marquette university Golden Avalanche of Milwaukee will meet the Santa Clara Broncos, Sugar Bowl champions, at Soldier field.

The game, played for the benefit of the employees' voluntary welfare fund of the Chicago Park district, will start at 2 P. M. Driscoll, long a Chicago favorite and a Northwestern gridiron im-

STENGEL SIGNS UP WITH BOSTON

Second Time Quinn Has Made Casey Ball Manager

Boston, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Bees, picked up a telephone in his office, called Omaha, Tex., and presto! Casey Stengel was back in the major leagues.

"Listen, Case, want to come with us next year?" bellowed Quinn yesterday as a roomful of newspapermen listened in.

"Certainly, I'd be delighted, thank you very much," came the reply—and Stengel, who received $15,000 last year for not managing the Brooklyn Dodgers while Burt Grimes got only $7,500 for plotting them, again was a big league manager.

It was the second time Quinn lined up Casey as manager. The first was in 1934 when Quinn was with the Dodgers and was instrumental in obtaining Stengel to replace Max Carey.

No Mention of Money
One of the astonishing things about the talk was that Quinn never mentioned money or whether the job was for one year or five.

"We'll have no trouble with Casey about contracts," Quinn laughed. "He'll be up here after the first of next month to meet all of you, and we'll straighten out several matters then, including the coaches."

Quinn indicated Stengel would decide the fate of Hank Gowdy and Bob Smith, coaches under Manager Bill McKee, who resigned shortly after the World Series to accept a better paying job with the Cincinnati Reds.

War Admiral Runs First Race Since Belmont Stakes

Laurel, Md., Oct. 26.—(AP)—War Admiral, the three-year-old champion, got a chance today to show whether or not he could pick up his victory streak from the point where an injured hoof forced him from competition nearly five months ago. Glen Riddle farm's speedy little brown son of Man O' War was entered against 10 other campaigners in the $1,200 Churchill handicap, fifth and feature event on the day's program here.

It was the first time the winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes had been entered in a race since the Admiral injured a hoof in the Belmont June 5.

GOLDEN BEARS STILL RATE NO. ONE GRID TEAM

Landslide Vote In Their Favor For Second Week

By ALAN GOULD
New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—California's Golden Bears, by a landslide vote of endorsement among the country's newspaper experts, remain the nation's No. 1 college football team for the second successive week.

Following their smashing victory over Southern California, the Bears were accorded top place in 47 of the 57 "first ten" selections contributed to this week's Associated Press national ranking roundup and tabulated today. Last week only 24 rated California at the head of the class, but the feeling now is pronounced that the Bears are moving rapidly toward Pacific coast honors, including the Rose Bowl nomination.

This week's poll was marked by a big shake-up in the lower brackets, but the "top five" remained the same, except for Pittsburgh's displacement of Alabama in the No. 2 spot. Here's the tabulation, scoring each list on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis, and with first place votes indicated in brackets:

First Ten	Points
1. California (48)	556
2. Pittsburgh (3)	408
3. Alabama	337
4. Minnesota (2)	321
5. Yale (2)	278
6. Baylor (1)	226
7. Vanderbilt (1)	167
8. Ohio State	146
9. Dartmouth	130
10. Fordham	122
Second ten: 11. Nebraska, 121;
12. Auburn, 85; 13. Duke, 84; 14. Santa Clara, 33; 15. North Carolina, 16; 16. Villanova, 13; 17. Louisiana State, 12; 18-19. Holy Cross and Detroit, tied at 9 each; 20. Arkansas, 8. (Colorado and Army received three votes each, Texas Christian and Northwestern two votes each).

Fullbacks Lead Touchdown Race

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Fullbacks led individual scoring in the Illinois Intercollegiate football conference following last week's games. Clayton Lambert of Illinois college scored all of his team's points, 13, in the defeat of Illinois Wesleyan Saturday and held first place today with a total of 20. Three other fullbacks ranked next.

Player	Team	Points

In the Classic league, Wednesday, October 20, George Beler and Eddie Worley tied for high series. Beler shot a series of 214-211-181 for 606 and Worley 191-200-215 for 606. Other games, Buchanan 210, Plock 214, Riddbauer 203-205, Dusing 219, Hanson 211, Schroeder 214-214, Williams 203, Lair 214, Welch 205, Kiefer 223, Cleary 214-200, Hartzell 204.

In the Commercial league, Thursday, October 21, Lyle Myer set the pace with 224-178-211 for 613. Ken Detweiler was second with 190-181-227 for 598. Other games were P. Peterson 200, Reis 210, Hill 205, Plock 223, Bondi 206, Daschbach 203-202.

In the Major league, Friday, October 22, Frank Cleary was high with 189-229-205 for a splendid 623 series. Lou Heckman was a close second with 217-223-181 for 621. Other fine games, Wolfe 209-212, Hartzell 201, Hoelscher 205, H. Fordham 206, Newcomer 213, Potter 237, Reis 218, Thompson 200.

Morris Potter with a 237 game won a large box of fine candy donated by Harry Herbst for high individual game.

Hot Stove League Hears Rickey Will Talk With Wrigley

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The hot stove league had it today that Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals will come here within the next few days to confer with P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs.

Wrigley said recently that the Cubs "want Joe Medwick," but admitted his organization would "have trouble" acquiring the Cardinal outfield ace.

LETTER VEXES DELEGATES AT A. A. U. MEETING

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—While such matters as the elimination of meters in favor of yards and miles in track events, establishment of regional championships, and resident rules are the big questions now listed for the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic union at Boston November 13-15, a new question has bobbed up which may cause considerable disturbance among the delegates.

That is what answer is to be made to a communication from the International Amateur Athletic federation asking why the A. A. U. had refused to send its touring athletes to Germany last summer.

While officials both here and in Europe vehemently denied yesterday that the I. A. A. F. contemplated any punitive action against the A. A. U., one A. A. U. official disclosed there had been correspondence on the subject and indicated no official reply had yet been made.

The official said he doubted if anything could be done before the annual meeting although the I. A. A. F., in its communication asking for both an explanation and a change of attitude, had requested a reply before October 18.

Bo Ekelund of Sweden, secretary of the I. A. A. F., and General Giorgio Vaccaro, secretary of the Italian Olympic committee, vigorously denied they had suggested a ban against the A. A. U. The fact the question apparently hasn't been closed, however, may lead to fireworks.

Nagurski Spells Danger For Giants Football Eleven

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Bronko is bucking again, which may be bad news for the New York Giants Sunday.

After a mediocre season in 1936 because of injuries, Bronko Nagurski of the Chicago Bears again is in the stride which has won him recognition as the greatest line crusher in the National Professional football league. On his broad shoulders, at the Polo Grounds in New York, will ride most of the Bears' hopes of downing the eastern division leaders and of continuing undefeated toward the western section and league titles.

One of the greatest backfield stars ever developed at Minnesota, Nagurski is serving his eighth year in professional football. In leading the Bears to a 28 to 20 win over Detroit Sunday, a game in which he pulverized the vaunted Detroit line, Nagurski indicated he is in for one of his greatest years.

"If we can stop the Giant passing game and can click as we did against Detroit, I think we'll win," Nagurski said today. "From what I hear, the Giants have their great est club of many years. Ed Danow, Theus, qb. Bradley. . . . 2 0 12 skt. I think, is as great a passer as Towsley, end. Lake For. 2 0 12 star) and they have a flock of fine receivers."

ROCHELLE, AS DANGEROUS AS EVER, IS NEXT

Purple In Position To Be Victims Of An Upset

Dixon rested unchallenged on the pinnacle of the North Central conference this week following the rout of DeKalb, the only other unbeaten member of the loop until Friday, 18 to 0. This week the locals entertain Rochelle and fully realize the implications and possibilities of this battle.

Three years ago Rochelle cheated Dixon out of a conference title by upsetting the highly favored Purple team, 19 to 6, thereby giving the championship to Sterling township high which had won only one game and tied four in conference competition. Last year at Mt. Morris, Rochelle met Dixon in the concluding and one of the most viciously fought gridiron contests seen on a northern Illinois field in years. Several players on both sides were hurt and Dixon barely managed to eke out a 14 to 12 victory.

Upset Sterling
This fall Rochelle sprang its first annual upset by topping Sterling, 12 to 7, to leave the cellar. Now the Hub City eleven is set to surprise the locals. Dixon, riding high on a crest of titles and victories the past few years, is in an excellent position to be upset and the locals are being warned by both coaches and fans that no one is more likely to do it than Rochelle, and also Sterling, which will be met a week later.

The Dixonites came through the DeKalb game in good condition. Rochelle is also reported to be in good condition. Their chief threat to Dixon's hopes for a championship is fleet Whitlock, Negro half-back on the Hub City eleven.

In last week's games Sterling downed Mendota, 7 to 6, and Dixon defeated DeKalb, 18 to 0. In non-conference tilts Rochelle bested Polo of the Rock River Valley conference, 24 to 13, and Belvidere edged out Marengo, 6 to 0.

North Central conference standings are:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Dixon	3	0	0	1.000
DeKalb	2	1	0	.666
Mendota	2	2	0	.500
Sterling	2	2	0	.500
Rochelle	1	2	0	.333
Belvidere	0	3	0	.000

Chats About Folks and Farming

By H. G. REMINGTON,
Farm Editor

Farm Adviser C. E. Yale said today that more than $10,000 of the required $15,000 of stock for the proposed Dixon cold storage locker plant has been sold and that additional sales will probably be reported at the meeting of the plant committee at Dixon tonight. At this meeting it is expected the building committee which has been investigating sites will make a report. Solicitation of locker tenants for the plant will be started soon, Mr. Yale said. The farm adviser and Miss Elizabeth Colean, home and garden editor, attended a general cold storage locker meeting at Ashton last night. Farmers in that section of Lee county and in nearby townships of Ogle county are interested in the proposal for a locker plant at Ashton. The Lee county Farm Bureau is sponsoring a talk by Lee Somers of the state agricultural college on cold storage lockers for locker patrons at Amboy on November 16 at 1:30 P. M.

That there is still a brisk demand for quality hogs was demonstrated at the Poland China sale of William Carver & Son of Lamolite, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa and 30 hogs and 10 gilts were sold. The top boar brought $227 and the lot of 30 averaged $75 each. The gilts averaged $52.

Just a reminder that October 31 is the deadline for performance by farmers participating in the 1937 soil conservation program. Final inspection of co-operating farms will be made as of November 1. No farm will be inspected or be eligible for payment for soil performance unless a request for inspection notice is filed with the county agricultural conservation committee prior to November 1. Several hundred farmers are co-operating in the soil conservation program in Lee county this year.

Outstanding 4-H club member, project champions and winners in Bureau county as announced by Farm Adviser Dean are: Outstanding club member, James Prendergast, Barrett club; beef champions, James Prendergast and Bernard Martin, Wyand; dairy, Omar Baumgartner, Walnut; sheep, Jeanne Coates, Neponset; and Gale Thomas, Wyand; sow and litter, Robert Anderson, Barrett; and Warren Bennett, Neponset; poultry, Madge Odell, Bureau township; meat project champion, Robert Stetson, Neponset; Chicago Producers' medals, James Prendergast, Elizabeth Coates and Gale Thomas. The 4-H club camp delegates are Omar Baumgartner, James Prendergast, Robert Stetson and Jeanne Coates.

Managers of Lee county grain elevators and others interested in grain attended a grain outlook meeting at Amboy Friday night. Dr. Paul Johnston of the agricultural economics department of the state college was the principal speaker.

The ninth unit of the statewide chain of co-operative Producers' creameries has been organized at Carlinville and will begin operating as soon as a plant can be provided and equipped, according to the Illinois Agricultural association. The new unit will be known as the Producers' creamery of Carlinville. It will process cream for farmers in Macoupin, Greene, Montgomery, Bond, Christian and Madison counties. Some weeks ago there was talk of organizing a similar unit to serve farmers of Lee and Ogle and possibly some adjacent counties.

Higher yields of grain throughout Illinois this year are reflected in the substantial increase of wheat, oats, barley and rye handled co-operatively by grain producers in the state during September. During the month the Illinois Grain corporation handled 630,661 bushels, which is approximately 40 per cent more than the amount handled in the corresponding month of last year.

William Graehling, route 3, Polo, is seeking an outlet for one and a half tons of popcorn grown last year. He wishes to move the popcorn to make room for his crop of field corn.

Electric line building on a project of 77 miles to serve 195 rural customers in Livingston county was started a few days ago. This is the second of three projects to be started in Livingston county. When they are completed 85 per cent of the territory in that county will be served by power lines.

Miss Gienna Henderson of the state college is to have charge of the Bureau county Home Bureau leaders' training school which will pertain to the use of cold storage lockers and preservation of meats by canning. The local leaders' training school on better English will take place at the Home Bureau office at Princeton November 17 at 1:30 P. M.

The Lee county Home Bureau will sponsor an open meeting Thursday, October 28, at 1:30 P. M. in the Masonic rooms over the Schuette store at Amboy. Miss Grace Armstrong will discuss "Yeast Bread Variations."

Miss Mary Louise Chase of the University of Illinois, will meet with the executive board of the Bureau county Home Bureau at the Farm Bureau auditorium at Princeton November 3, at 10 A. M., and with the advisory council at the same place at 1:30 J. M. on November 3. Each unit chairman, vice chairman and secretary will be present, and the advisory council will make suggestions for improving the program of the Home Bureau during the coming year.

A new class in home accounts, one of the projects sponsored by the Lee county Home Bureau, is to be organized by Mrs. Ruth C. Freeman, home accounts specialist from the University of Illinois, at the Home Bureau office at Amboy Monday, November 1, at 1 P. M. Women desiring to participate in the project are requested to notify the Home Bureau not later than October 30. Mrs. Freeman will meet with Bureau county women at the Farm Bureau auditorium at Princeton November 18.

Eight circulars and eleven bulletins have been published by the state college of agriculture on various phases of soybean production.

"The vital need of agriculture today is not so much for men of greater natural ability as for men with the training, courage and sincerity to utilize fully the ability they already have in learning the facts of their work and applying them to the best advantage to meet their particular needs." This statement, made by Wilber J. Fraser, who has served the Illinois college of agriculture for 41 years as professor of dairy farming, is contained in his book, "Profitable Farming and Life Management," which is just off the press. It is from more than half a century of experience in practical farming and teaching that Fraser drew in writing his new book. Out of his early studies and teachings has grown the nationwide system of dairy herd improvement associations of which there are now more than 800 in the United States and 60 in Illinois.

At a recent meeting farmers living in the vicinity of Walnut decided not to hold the annual institute next year. Lack of interest was given as the reason.

Ten students of the Milledgeville chapter of Future Farmers of America picked 539 bushels of corn on the Whiteside county farm of Frank Livengood to replenish their treasury.

Two Indiana 4-H club boys today have $250 college scholarships for spending some of their spare time this last summer working up and staging a demonstration on producing quality milk. They are Eugene Thomas, 16, and John Carson, 17, both of Liberty, who applied so well what they had learned in club projects and home dairies that they were able to win state honors and trips to the National Dairy Show at Columbus, Ohio, where they won the scholarships over nine other competing teams from the central states. Ranking of the other central state teams were as follows: Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and Michigan. Thirty-six states took part in the contest for which trips and $2,300 in college scholarships were provided by the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation.

The best index to the present financial wealth of farmers in Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas is that during the year borrowers from the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis have been making heavy repayments on the principal of their loans, according to Governor W. I. Myers of the farm credit administration. He said farmers of the three states have repaid $6,435,000 of principal though in most instances payments were not due until next July. Approximately $2,500,000 of this amount represented loans paid in full. The figures show a vast improvement over last year.

Carl Stoner, vice president of section 1, Future Farmers of America, attended the national convention of the organization at Kansas City last week.

The DeKalb county corn husking contest will take place Thursday, October 28, at the Louis Borchert farm, northeast of Hinckley, starting at noon. This is one of the contests in this area prior to the state contest at Van Orin on November 1. The Stephenson county contest is to be staged tomorrow, October 27, near Florence Station, at the farm of August Otto.

The heavy wind following a rain in Ogle county last week resulted in considerable corn going down in the south half of the county, farmers reported.

Howard Webster, west of Polo, said his hybrid No. 366 is yielding 100 bushels per acre. This is one of the biggest yields reported in this area to date.

The Pine Creek-Grand Detour community unit of Ogle county will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Hopkins, two miles south of Pennsylvania corners. There will be motion pictures and a talk on electricity by Frank Kingsley of Dixon. Mrs. Elsie Ross Butler of the University also is to discuss the Home Bureau organization. A program of music will be provided and refreshments will be served. The Forrester community unit held a meeting last Friday night at Diehl's opera house at Forrester. There was a program of music and songs and a talk on hybrid corn. Refreshments were served.

Arthur Stoner, who with Clyde Davis and Harry Wolf of Polo, are the committee endeavoring to establish a cold storage locker plant at Polo to serve the farmers of southwestern Ogle county, told the farm editor that a stock selling campaign is to be launched this week. The committee plans to sell $5,000 of stock before making further plans for the plant, Mr. Stoner said. The proposed plant will have 300 to 500 lockers, he said.

J. E. Mau, president of the Lee county Farm Bureau; Dale Rosenkrantz, president of the Lee County Agricultural Conservation association, Justin Becker and Farm Adviser C. E. Yale will be among Lee county farm leaders who will attend a two-day conference at Springfield on the congressional farm program. This hearing, the final one to be held in the middle west before congress meets, is arranged by a committee of United States senators headed by Senator Smith of South Carolina. Time will be given to farm representatives from neighboring states to present their ideas as to what the new farm bill should provide. The hearing will take place at the Leland hotel at Springfield on October 29 and 30.

C. A. Burnmeister, senior agricultural economist of the federal department of agriculture, told the 32nd annual convention of the American Meat Packers at Chicago yesterday that larger meat supplies in prospect would lower retail meat prices next year. He blamed the drought of 1936 as the chief cause of the high prices this year.

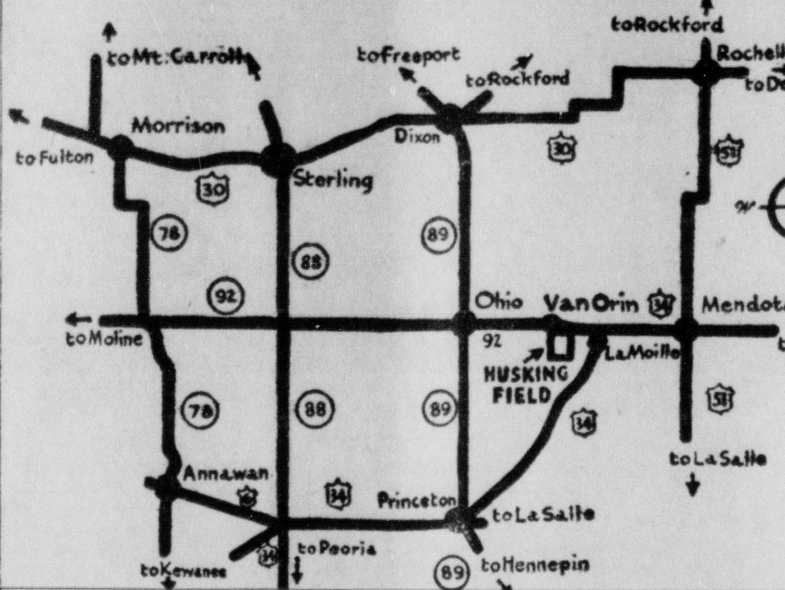

Whiteside and Bureau Chorus In State Cantata

Bureau, Whiteside and DeKalb county units of Illinois' famous rural chorus will present during the 1938 season "Harvest Caravans," a cantata written especially for its use by Russell Hancock Miles, associate professor of music at the University of Illinois. The state rural chorus is one of the projects sponsored by the extension service of the state college of agriculture to assist rural families in planning and executing their own cultural and recreational activities. Last year more than 1600 rural residents participated in the chorus which was recruited in twenty-three counties, and more are expected to take part in 1938, according to D. E. Lindstrom, assistant professor of rural sociology. Rehearsals will get under way shortly after the first of the year and practice sessions will be held one hour daily during Farm and Home Week, January 10 to 14.

Routes to Corn Contest Farm

State Corn Husking Tilt Set for Monday With 12 Competitors

Frank Grisell Farm Near Van Orin is Contest Site

Lee county residents are particularly fortunate this year in being afforded an opportunity to witness the thirteenth annual state corn husking contest without traveling long distances. This year's contest, sponsored by Prairie Farmer, is to be held just over the south county line in Bureau county on Monday, Nov. 1.

The farm of Frank Grisell, opposite the airport at the eastern edge of the village of Van Orin, has been selected as the site of the contest, and the Farm Bureau of Bureau county is cooperating in arrangements for the big event. Plans are being made to accommodate a crowd of 50,000 people. Adam Byczynski of Lamolite only a few miles from Van Orin, was the Illinois state champion in 1936 and runner-up in the national contest last year. Last year the Lamolite man husked 41,175 bushels of corn in 80 minutes to nose out Theodore Tuffie of LaSalle county by a fraction of an ear. He will defend his title again at the state contest.

Twelve to Compete Forty Illinois county contests, some of which have been held and others are scheduled this week, are to determine the 11 men who will husk against Byczynski.

The contest farm offers a good field of hybrid corn, all standing perfectly, and with fair weather conditions, it is anticipated new husking records will be established. The winner and the runner-up in the state contest will husk against champions from nine other states at the national contest to be held on the farm operated by Weber Bros., near Marshall, Saline county, Missouri, Nov. 4.

The present national champion is Carl Carlson, Iowa, who husked 21,04 bushels in a nearly barren field in Ohio last year, to beat 17 other contestants. The world's record of 41,53 bushels is held by Elmer Carlson, Iowa, brother of the present national champion. This record was made at the national contest in Indiana in 1935. With good corn crops in the Illinois and Missouri contest fields there should be some records made again this year, though anything more than 40 bushels is hard to beat.

Many Exhibits Planned Forty exhibitors of farm machinery, household equipment, automobiles, hybrid corn and other products of interest to farmers and homemakers will have a display of state fair proportions at headquarters during the state contest. No beer will be sold on the grounds and no other concessions permitted. Several dining tents will be operated by churches and similar organizations. Good entertainment will be provided and loud-speaker equipment is to be installed for this program as well as for announcement concerning the husking contest.

The map published elsewhere in the farm news department today will be helpful to residents of this area in selecting routes to the state contest field.

From Dixon the Grisell farm may be reached by following route 89 south to Ohio and thence east on route 92 beyond Van Orin. There is concrete all the way.

The county contest in Ogle county is taking place this afternoon at the farm of F. M. Countryman under sponsorship of the Farm Bureau. The contest farm is two and a half miles directly south of Lindenwood. It is one-half mile north of highway 64 and two miles east of highway 61. The contest is limited to 10 huskers. The husking was scheduled to begin promptly at noon and was to continue 80 minutes. Fred Nordham of Chana was last year's county champion with 27,06 bushels. Runner-up was William Richman, Polo, with 26,5 bushels.

Roy Dremann, Princeton, is the new county champion of Bureau county. He husked 36,83 bushels in the county contest south of Wyand last Thursday afternoon. Runner-up was Elmer Wagelin, Walnut, with 34,5 bushels. Judging by results to date in other counties, Dremann will be among the contestants in the state contest. Lee county is staging on husking contest this year.

J. E. Mau, president of the Lee county Farm Bureau, and Justin Becker, Lamolite, an active member of the bureau, have been invited to serve as officials at the state husking contest.

Dairy Breeders' School in Dixon Wednesday Night

Dairy cattle breeders are reminded that the local school for breeders is to be held at the city hall in Dixon Wednesday, October 27, at 7:30 P. M. The school is one in a series sponsored by the extension service of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America in co-operation with the dairy extension division of the University of Illinois. All dairy cattle breeders are invited. Dr. E. E. Heizer and E. M. Clark of the Holstein-Friesian association will conduct the school and the lectures will be illustrated with charts and lantern slides. Dr. Heizer is recognized as one of the leading authorities on genetics. He will present the latest information concerning inbreeding, line breeding, outcrossing, color inheritance, proven sires, brood cow families and herd improvement in general.

DIXON STATE PULLING RECORD STILL UNBROKEN

World and Heavyweight Honors Also Remain in Illinois

A new world's record and two new state records, including the one set at the Lee county fair and horse show at the Dixon airport, were established this year as Illinois farmers witnessed a record number of 31 horse and mule pulling contests, according to E. T. Robbins, livestock extension specialist of the Illinois college of agriculture.

Although the new world's record was not set at an Illinois contest it was established by an Illinois team, the first time the honor has ever been won by an Illinois team. The world's champion pullers, a big team belonging to Cedardale farms, Plano, Ill., and driven by Pliny Baird, set the new world's record at Hillsdale, Mich., where they lifted 3,950 pounds and pulled the load the official distance of 27½ feet.

Weighing 4,300 pounds the Plano team also hold the new state record for heavy teams with a lift of 3,625 pounds for the required distance. The new record was established at Cambridge, Ill.

Record at Dixon Another notable achievement was made in the light weight class by a pair of horses owned by M. B. Summers, New Berlin, Ill. To set a new state record in their class, they lifted 2,875 pounds and pulled the load the required distance at a contest held at Dixon. Weighing 2,850 pounds, the team lifted 101 per cent of their own weight, an achievement accomplished by only about 12 teams in the world.

This year climaxes a dozen years of horse pulling contests sponsored in Illinois by the extension service of the agricultural college with the object of displaying the best type of draft horses and demonstrating good training and horsemanship.

"The large number of contests this year is due partly to better financing of fairs and other organizations and partly to the fact that officers of these organizations realize that people thoroughly enjoy a good contest of strength such as they see in a horse pulling contest," Robbins said. "Also, there is a strong and growing interest on the part of farmers in developing good pulling teams."

The contests are managed by Robbins, and the pulls are recorded on a pulling machine or dynamometer owned and operated by the extension service of the college. This year the machine was equipped with a loud speaker through which information and announcements about the teams and their performance are given to spectators. The dynamometer and loud speaking equipment were managed at each contest by Frank Andrew, a senior student at the college of agriculture.

Select 4-H Girls From Lee County For State Contest

Three outstanding Lee county 4-H project champions are to enter state competition. They are Helen Vogel and Betty Freeland, both residing on route 1, Ashton, and Virginia Dodd, 413 Carroll avenue, Dixon. These young women have a good 4-H record, are co-operative, have shown personal merit and are what the leaders term "good all around 4-H club members." All took high prizes for the products which they made this year and were active on the local and county programs. The two Ashton members attended the 4-H camp this year.

'Alfalfa Hutch' to Give Seed Bed Demonstration Near Dixon October 29

All Growers Invited to Spend Friday At Utz Farm

Some farmers say that they can get a good stand of alfalfa any old way, but one of their neighbors will doubtless reply, "Some day you will find that your stand of alfalfa will die out before it gets past the danger stage."

"We can't take a chance on this most valuable of all crops," says Charles R. Hutcheson, who is to stage the Alfalfa Day demonstration sponsored by The Evening Telegraph, at the Dan Utz farm, Friday, Oct. 29. Preparation of the seed bed by means of modern farm equipment and talks by Mr. Hutcheson, better known as "Alfalfa Hutch," will feature this all day affair. There will be no charge whatever and ample parking space will be available. All farmers are cordially invited. The Utz farm is located along the Lincoln highway, one mile east of Dixon.

A big display of farm equipment, fertilizer and appliances for the home will prove of interest to farmers and homemakers. The program begins at 10 A. M. when plowing of the alfalfa seed beds will get under way.

"All of the important things should be done in preparing the seed bed and in seeding the alfalfa," Mr. Hutcheson explained. "Then it makes one of the surest crops that we can seed in our soil. The drainage should be proper and the fertility sufficient to produce a good crop."

"I have found in every community some farmers that have had ups and downs with alfalfa for 30 years."

Roller Reduces Cost "On farms where the alfalfa patches are not large enough to warrant the buying of a corrugated roller, some use corrugated bridge culverling, 13 inches in diameter, five to six feet long, filled in with cement, placing bolts in either end.

"Most farmers find that where they are putting in from 10 to 15 acres of sweet clover every year they can afford to buy one of the corrugated rollers."

"By proper preparation of the soil they can get just as good a stand of alfalfa with 10 pounds of seed as they formerly obtained when using 15 to 20 pounds of seed."

"Now take a look at the little seed. See how small it is. Nature has put a hard coat on it because it is hardy, but there isn't enough plant food in the seed to send its shoots very far up through the ground soil so it can get light, sunshine and air. Nor is there enough plant food in the seed to send its roots very far into the ground to get moisture and plant food. So this is the reason why the seed bed should be mellow, free from clods and air spaces and firmed down, compact, and this is what farmers should keep in mind in preparing seed beds for alfalfa."

To Prepare Seed Bed "In 1936 I found dozens of fields of alfalfa that the farmers told me had had a good stand when the seed first came up, but later died out. I learned that they had not firmed their seed beds down with a corrugated roller."

"Farmers should not take this chance. They should use the corrugated roller not only for alfalfa but also for all seedings of clover and other grass seeds."

At Friday's demonstration acres of ground will be plowed, disced, limed and prepared for the seeding of alfalfa, and all steps in the preparation of the seed bed will be

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

For the last six months the hens have been outdoing themselves!

The U. S. government figures prove it. More eggs have been produced per hen than at any time since the government began keeping a record of production in 1925. There are fewer layers on the farms than there were a year ago, but the higher rate of production has resulted in about 10 per cent more eggs than last year.

It is evident that people have found out they can increase production by taking better care of their flocks and particularly by feeding them better. Naturally you'd like to be able to sell these eggs for a better price than you're getting.

With meat as high as it is, we would expect people to eat a lot more eggs than usual. But they haven't been doing it—perhaps because vegetables have been cheap and there was a big fruit crop.

At any rate, the eggs are over a billion more cases of eggs available now than at this time last year. And the hens are still hitting new highs for seasonal production.

Est More Eggs It's true, of course, that with feed so much cheaper you have a better chance of making money on eggs than you have had for several seasons. But I am sure none of us would object to seeing this egg market a little higher.

Selling your hens doesn't help you. It only makes the market better for some neighbor who is smart enough to keep his. And as long as you keep hens, you certainly want to get as good production from them as possible.

But there's one way we can get that price up and continue to produce as many eggs as we have been. That's by getting people to eat more eggs.

Chain stores have been asked to feature eggs—and they're doing it. Government agencies are urging people to use more eggs. Groups of producers and dealers have organized to advertise eggs. Every effort is being made to promote their sale in the cities.

You should find them as cheap as any food you can put on your table. Are you eating as many of them as you might? Remember, the more eggs you use at home the better market you'll have for those you sell!

Rural Schools Too Often Firetraps

Famous Athlete Barely Escaped In School Blaze

Failure to Provide Fire-Resistant Materials Is Scored by Official

By FRANCIS R. SCHERER
Chairman National Fire Protection Association Committee on "Safety to Life"

Glenn Cunningham, the world's greatest one-mile runner, is a Kansas farm boy. On June 16, 1934, at Princeton, N. J., he astounded the athletic experts of the nation by running a mile in the phenomenal time of 4 minutes 6 7/10 seconds, a new world's record.

But Glenn Cunningham came close to never reaching the sports pages as an athletic hero for young America.

The rural school which he attended as a boy in Kansas was the scene of a terrifying fire when he was yet a little youngster in the early grades. Several children were burned to death. Cunningham was severely burned. One of the powerful legs which has carried him to world's records still bears the scars.

But Cunningham was lucky. Thousands of other school children, in school buildings poorly designed and unsafely constructed to combat the hazards of fire, have been less fortunate. Five school buildings burn in the United States somewhere every day of the year. No one knows how many boys and girls whose lives were ended by fires in schools that were veritable tinder boxes might have grown into citizens of national prominence for the advance of humanity.

Especially is this true in the days of the rural school where too often devoted to the protection of these future citizens have gone into other projects. The nation was shocked only a few months ago when some 300 children lost their lives in the New London, Texas, gas explosion. Thus it was proved that not always even in a modern fire-resistant school building is life completely safe from other unguarded hazards. But there is no excuse whatever for the flimsy, fire-inviting structures with inadequate exits in which so many children spend their days.

This is especially true because the rural school in most cases is comparatively isolated, without means of fire protection save that provided by the teachers, the janitors and the students themselves.

In the small one-, two- and three-room school of the country district—the familiar "little red schoolhouse" in which so many of our public men learned their first lessons—the need for improved safety to life is especially imperative. The buildings often have been allowed to fall into a state of disrepair. There are no safe emergency exits; if there is a fire escape, it is of the flimsy ladder type, worse than useless. Too little attention is paid to fire drills. Fire extinguishers are notable by their absence. Heating facilities are too often archaic. The stoves or furnaces must be pushed out cold winter mornings in order to make the school comfortable or even habitable by nine o'clock.

Then it is that old and faulty chimney construction becomes a positive menace. Then it is that sparks from such a chimney, nesting among the dried-out wooden shingles still too often used in the construction of school roofs can start a fire which, unseen by anyone as it smolders on the roof, is the germ of a real disaster.

For the failure to provide fire-safe construction and heating apparatus and fire-resistant roofing such as asphalt shingles, asbestos, metal, slate or tile, along with proper fire-prevention facilities with which the children and teachers should be fully familiar, there can be no excuse in any school today save that of false economy. It has been authoritatively stated that faulty chimney construction and sparks on roofs cause more than one-half of the fires in farm dwellings and that this is true no less of farm schools than of farm dwellings.

Definite figures are not available on the total number of boys and girls who die as a result of fire in rural schools throughout the country but many hundreds of these deaths have been recorded. These children's lives have been snuffed out when they were supposed to be under our care and protection fully as much as when at home. It is too great a price to pay for negligence.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JILL WENTWORTH, heroine, attractive debutante.
ALAN JEFFERY, hero, rising young artist.
BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's stepbrother.
JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.
SYLVIA STUTON, old heiress.
Yesterday: Jack Wentworth rescues Sylvia from near drowning in the lake and thereby paves the way for a new romance, much against Mrs. Wentworth's plans.

CHAPTER IV

FOR a moment, Jack, looking like some blond young Viking, and Sylvia, her wet hair falling back from her white face, were outlined in the doorway.

"Somebody get some brandy, quick," Jack commanded. "And a blanket to put around her."

Mrs. Wentworth moved about mechanically, giving orders to the servants. Barry had brought the brandy and stooped to hold it to Sylvia's lips. But Jack took it from Barry's hand.

"Drink a little of this," he said gently, as though oblivious of the others grouped about the room. "There, that's fine."

Color was coming back to Sylvia's cheeks. She glanced wonderingly up into Jack's face.

"I was wondering what you would look like," she said.

"You were the gamest—"

"You were pretty swell, yourself," came Sylvia's weak voice.

"I was on my way here," Jack explained to the others, "driving fairly close to shore. I heard her call for help. The boat had capsized and she was trying to swim in. Lucky she wasn't far from shore."

"It seemed a long distance when you were swimming in with me," Sylvia said.

Tears stung Mrs. Wentworth's eyes. It wasn't fair for Jack to meet Sylvia in the role of a rescuer, with angry elements providing a dramatic backdrop. Jack was good-looking, and girls were romantic and impressionable.

She hoped it would continue raining. Rain would provide an excuse to break up the house party and go into town.

But the next morning there was little evidence of the past night's fury except broken branches on the ground, and rubbish washed upon the shore.

A zephyr-like breeze moved the bright awnings again. The lake was calm as glass, deeply blue. Taking its mood from the serene skies.

IN the afternoon, Jack—who had been following Sylvia about like a constant shadow—took her out in a boat.

Barry, sitting gloomily on the pier, watched them start off.

"You are wise to take your handsome life guard along with you," Barry said. "Another storm might come along. Maybe that's what he hopes will happen."

Sylvia's face flushed. It was poor sportsmanship for Barry to pretend that Jack's bravery was a spectacular gesture.

It was late when they returned. "Everybody will be wondering about you," Jack said. "If it were not for that, I'd keep you out here to watch the moon come over the lake."

"Let's," Sylvia's voice was eager. "They will know no harm could come to me on a lovely evening like this—not with someone who swam the lake with me in a cyclone."

"It was fortunate for me that you came when you did," Sylvia said in a serious tone. "I'm wondering how it could have happened."

"I suspect things are meant," Jack's earnest tone matched her own. "It all seemed to have worked out. I didn't come on the party because I expected a classmate to be in town several days. But he had to leave today, so I drove over here."

"And then you heard me call for help," Sylvia's voice urged him to repeat the story.

"Yes, I had slowed the car down for the turn. At first I thought I was imagining things. But I stopped the car, and next time I heard you call quite clearly."

"I didn't call until I realized I couldn't make it in," Sylvia said. She shuddered a little.

"Stop thinking about it, Sylvia," Jack spoke gently. "I'm going to take you inside where it's cheerful. I've kept you out too long."

THE chain grated as Jack secured the boat. He assisted Sylvia out of the boat, and they stood for a moment, his arm lightly supporting her.

"When I said people would be wondering—I meant Barry," Jack said.

"Why?"

"You see, I had the impression as we started off that Barry was pretty much upset. I had a feeling—it was a pretty definite feeling—that perhaps I was cutting in. That you and Barry—" He stopped.

"It was natural for Barry to feel upset," Sylvia said. "He doesn't like the position you placed him in. He left me on the lake and you went in after me."

"Don't be too hard on him. He must have been pretty sure you had gone in to shore."

amended in A. D. 1917, was issued to the plaintiff by the Master in Chancery of said court and a duplicate thereof recorded as provided by law and said decree; and, whereas, said decree is wholly unavailing and no redemption has been made under said certificate as provided by statute, the undersigned Master in Chancery of the Circuit Court of Lee County, Illinois, will on WEDNESDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. OGLE 4-H GIRL, BOY CHAMPIONS ARE SELECTED

Achievement Day Program Is Given at Oregon Saturday

John Williams of Lindenwood, Lorraine Link of Forreston, Lois Rita Dailey of Creston and Miriam Holmes of Lindenwood are the year's outstanding 4-H club members of Ogle county. W. D. Warren, farm adviser, announced at the celebration held Saturday afternoon in the Coliseum at Oregon to mark the windup of another year of club work in the county. Outstanding members and champions were picked by club leaders at recent meetings, when records of their projects were checked.

Champion 4-H clubbers of the county are as follows:
Clothing—Lydia Heath, Stewart; Lois Rita Dailey, Creston; Miriam Holmes, Lindenwood, and Lorraine Link, Forreston.

Foods—Virginia Carmichael, Rochelle; Miriam Holmes, Lindenwood, and Margaret Knight, Rochelle.

Pigs—Harold Stauffer, Polo; Floyd Coffman, German Valley; Gavin Cross, Polo.

Beef—Harold Coffman, German Valley; Glen Borneman and Orville Borneman, both of Leaf River.

Show Corn, Poultry

Music and games made up the entertainment program of achievement day and in connection with the affair was a 4-H club corn and poultry show in which cash prizes were given the winners. The money was advanced by the Farm Bureau, which later is to be reimbursed by the state. Mr. Slothower, agriculture instructor of the Ashton high school, who judged the poultry, declared the show was much better than last year.

Placings in the various classes for cockerel, pullet and pen in the order named were as follows:

White Leghorns—Jason Martin, 8, 1 and 1; Roland Schoonhoven, 4, 2 and 3; Dale Geyer, 1, 4 and 4; Albert Erickson, 1, 4 and 4.

Rhode Island Reds—Walter Schmidt, 2, 1 and 1; Robert Alcock, 1, 2 and 2.

White Minorcas—Bruce Brindley, 2, 2 and 2. In this class also were shown Barred Plymouth Rocks, in which Ellis Rothenthal took first for cockerel, pullet and pen.

Buff Plymouth Rocks—Harry Bowers, 2, 1 and 2; Wesley Noble, 1, 2 and 1.

White Wyandottes—James Stauffer, 2, 1 and 1; Orville Borneman, 1, 2 and 2.

Has Champion Pen

Championship for all breeds was won by the pen exhibited by Stewart Tilton, Rochelle. They were White Plymouth Rocks and Stewart took first for cockerel, pullet and pen. Second for cockerel, pullet and pen in this class went to Darrell Prindle.

Placing in the corn show were as follows:

Clubbers from 10 to 14 years—First, Owen Klevin; second, Junior Bennett; third, Eugene Jankoskie; fourth, Walter VanHise.

Clubbers from 15 to 20 years—First, Milford Gesin; second, Francis Baker; third, Donald Coleman; fourth, Francis Coleman.

Second year—First, Harold Stauffer; second, Bruce Brindley; third, Gunner Perkins, fourth, Albert Erickson.

Third year—First, William Rienstra; second, Robert VanHise; third, Robert Milligan; fourth, Floyd Coffman.

Fourth year—First, Roland Schoonhoven; second, Wallace Rankin; third, Edward Schumanski; fourth, John Williams.

Roland Schoonhoven, Chana, won the championship of the corn show, while reserve championship went to Harold Stauffer of Polo.

Potatoes—First, Floyd Gesin; second, Orville Borneman; third, Dale Krontz.

Members of the various 4-H clubs were awarded service pins at the celebration.

Community Units Are Sponsored in Bureau County

To provide a better set up the Bureau county Farm and Home Bureaus are sponsoring community units throughout the county. These units will have a three-fold purpose. They will bring educational material that is of immediate use to the community, provide social activities and recreation to a group of people interested in wholesome group activity, and bring about a more cooperative spirit on the part of rural people. The chairman and secretary of each community unit may be Farm and Home Bureau members. The program, however, is one that is open to any person in the community. The meetings are held in the evening and it is planned to have units in each township. The community unit is a place where families can come and all can take part.

TOWNSHIP MEETS FOR OGLE WOMEN SET THIS WEEK

Organization Plans for Home Bureau to be Discussed

Another series of informational meetings to acquaint homemakers with the merits of Home Bureau membership is scheduled this week in Ogle county. Mrs. Elsie Ross Butler of the extension department of the University of Illinois will be present at these meetings. She has been active in the Home Bureau organization work in Ogle county.

Mrs. R. O. Rainwater, Flag township, was hostess to homemakers of that neighborhood yesterday, and the next informational meeting will take place tomorrow at the home of Mrs. W. P. Haney, Rockvale township. On October 28 a meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Tom Richolson, Scott township. On Friday, October 29, the informational meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Scholl, Buffalo township.

A countywide meeting to discuss Home Bureau organization is to be held at Oregon November 12. All women of the county, regardless of township residence or Farm Bureau membership, are invited to attend any of the informational or general organization meetings, the committee announced.

Mrs. John N. Price, Pine Creek township, is chairman of the county organization committee. Other members are Mrs. Tom Richolson, Scott township; Mrs. Herbert Coffman, Pine Creek; Mrs. Robert Tref, Maryland; Mrs. Harry Milligan, White Rock; Mrs. J. W. Hemingway, Nachusa; Mrs. W. P. Haney, Rockvale; Mrs. E. G. Dunne, Lafayette; Mrs. Leigh N. Patton, Mt. Morris; Mrs. Clara Bradford, Oregon; Mrs. Edward Brachle, Lafayette; Mrs. L. A. Countyman, DeMotte; Mrs. L. D. Carmichael, Lynnville; Mrs. William Dew, Buffalo; Mrs. R. O. Rainwater, Mrs. J. H. Carney, Flags, and Miss Ella Chaney, Marion.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

HEY, FELLERS!—TWO OF OUR HORSES ARE GONE

Three boys, Bob, Bill and Jim, were spending a vacation at a ranch out west and one day they set out on a trip on horseback. They had covered a distance of 43 1/2 miles to a little cabin where they stopped to rest and have something to eat. When they started after their picketed horses they were dismayed to find that two had disappeared.

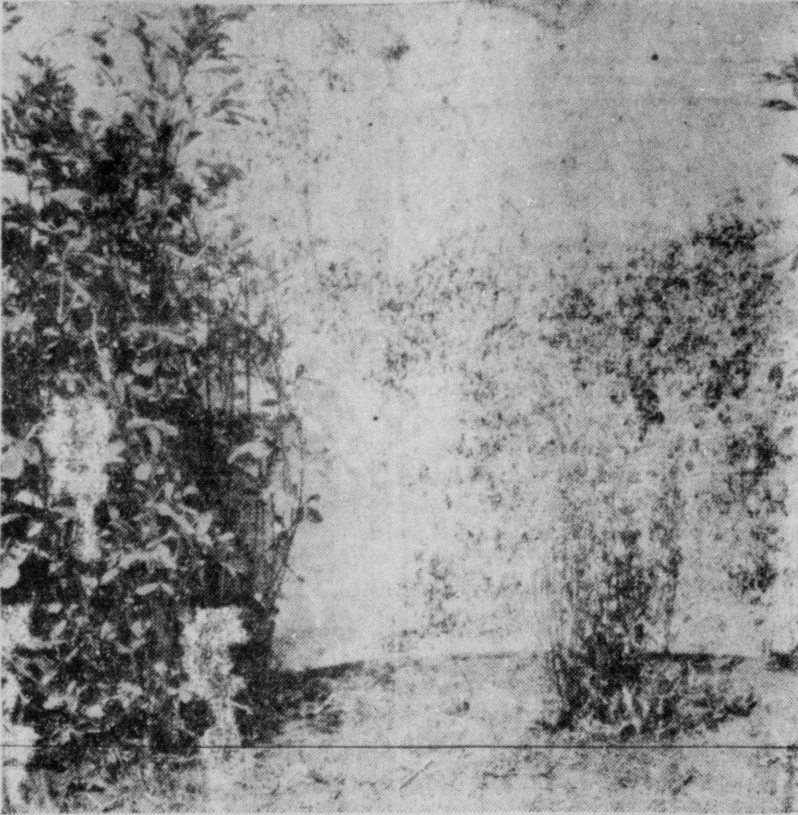

After discussing the situation they started back to the ranch, Bob and Bill riding the remaining horse and Jim walking. The two would go on ahead, one would start walking, the other returning for the boy left behind. The horse could average twenty m. p. h. and the boys could walk respectively, Bob a mile in 20 minutes, Bill a mile in 15 minutes, and Jim, a mile in 12 minutes. How could the three reach the ranch house in the shortest possible time?

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S TWIZZLER

Mr. Andrews was the deaf man. Mr. Brown the chairman, Mr. Collins the jovial man, Mr. Davis was Mr. Freeman's brother-in-law, Mr. Edwards the noisy man, Mr. Freeman the very large man.

An Actual Comparison

To the left is some alfalfa which has not experienced the hazard and probable death of "alfalfa wilt," while at the right one gets a glimpse of alfalfa which has been contaminated with "alfalfa wilt." If this is one of your alfalfa problems it will be worth while to attend the Alfalfa Day demonstration by "Alfalfa Hutch" at the Dan Utz farm, one mile east of Dixon, Friday, October 29. The demonstration is free and the farm can be reached on the Lincoln highway.

LOCAL FEEDERS IN STOCKYARDS TOUR THURSDAY

Plan Study of Grades To Yield Profit, Steady Market

Prospects of cheaper feed and more cattle feeding are making experienced beef producers wary of going too heavily into feeding lest the new comers glut the market and reduce prices. These are conclusions reached by the Chicago Producers, who are to be hosts Thursday of this week to about 50 Lee livestock cattle feeders, who will tour the stockyards, W. E. Taylor, West Brooklyn, is in charge of the Farm Bureau sponsored tour and all feeders are invited to participate. The group will meet at Amboy at 6:45 P. M. Thursday and will go over the new route 71 to Chicago, where they will assemble at the Producers' offices at 9:30 A. M. A judging contest for different classes and grades of hogs, cattle and sheep is being arranged for the visitors.

Market leaders agree that there are certain grades of cattle that can be handled with reasonable assurance of coming out on the right side of the ledger. Recommendations for Illinois feeders as outlined by the Producers' market experts include:

Purchase of high quality steer and heifer calves ranging in weight from 350 to 500 pounds to be fed for the late summer and fall markets next year. Steer calves can be bought, it was said, for around $10 to $10.25 laid down or at $9.25 to $9.50 bought on the range.

Plain steers of medium quality to be grazed this fall on stalks, roughage and silage, and then full feed on grain for 60 to 75 days for the early spring market. This kind can be had for $6.50 to $8 per hundred-weight, depending on weight and flesh.

Feeder cows for fall grazing and stalks to be grain fed from 30 to 60 days and put on the market after the first of the year. Light weight cows can be fed up to April.

The supply of pork in the United States will be 25 to 30 per cent less in the next twelve months than the average for the years 1929-1933, in the opinion of the Chicago Producers' marketing experts. Coupled with this is the prediction that the reduced supply of pork will bolster the market for medium beef.

Lee county feeders are planning to visit several farms on a feed lot tour scheduled for November 5. Prof. E. T. Robbins of the state college of agriculture and a representative of the Producers' association will be present. Following lunch there will be a general livestock discussion meeting at the Farm Bureau office at Amboy.

Careless Use Of Guns Means Hunting Mishaps

Hunting is one of the oldest of man's activities, yet of the many sportsmen who yearly take to the field thousands are killed or injured because of carelessness with arms. C. M. Seagraves, director of the department of safety for the Illinois Agricultural association, has made some suggestions to eliminate hunting mishaps which last year caused nearly 2,000 deaths. Guns should never contain shells, even in the magazine, except when actually in the field, he said. Guns should never be cocked or have the safety released until the game is sighted. Hunting parties should be small and of carefully selected persons who will stay together. Guns should be handled at all times so that should they fire unexpectedly no one would be injured. Remember this when going through or over a fence. Shoot at nothing not clearly discernible and not then if some one of your party is out of sight. Yell your head off if someone points a gun your way. LEE SERVICE CO. LEADERS ATTEND PEORIA MEETING

Delegation Learns That Dividends Increase 22.3 Per Cent

Lee county farmers attending the annual meeting of the Illinois Farm Supply Co. at Peoria last week heard Manager L. R. Marchant report that patronage dividends of $285,793.51, an increase of 22.3 per cent over last year, are to be distributed to 64 county service companies and other co-operatives affiliated with the company. The 64 county companies, advance estimates show, will do a business of approximately $13,000,000 by the end of the year.

Charles Whitebread of Dixon, manager of the Lee County Service Co., a Farm Bureau auxiliary, headed the local delegation, which included Wesley Attig of Ashton, J. E. Mau of Harmon, Fred Gilmore of Compton, Justin Becker of Lamolite, Yeon J. Hart of Dixon and Farm Adviser C. E. Yale.

The service companies handle petroleum and other farm supplies. Net sales of the 64 county service companies affiliated with the state company will show a 20 per cent increase over the value of last year's sales, Marchant said.

During the 11 years the company has operated it was said Illinois farmers have saved more than $6,500,000 by purchasing petroleum and other supplies through their own co-operatives. While gasoline, kerosene and tractor fuel remain the leading commodities handled by the state co-operative, lubricating oils and greases, paint, fertilizer, mill feeds and other goods were purchased for member companies.

The company handled 89,594,746 gallons of petroleum products for 90,000 farmer patrons during the year. The retail value of these products alone totaled $11,500,000.

In addition to $3,000,000 state and federal taxes collected at the point of sale, the company paid $44,931.13 federal income tax. Member service companies paid $50,494.44 in federal income taxes.

During an invasion of grasshoppers this summer farmers saved $1,300 through co-operative purchases of 67,192 pounds of white arsenic dust. This was cited as typical of emergencies which the company is often called upon to meet.

Closing his report by setting goals to be attained by the company in 1938, Marchant expressed an optimistic view for increased business during the coming year.

Willis Smith, manager, Clarence Ratmeyer and Claude Holmes of Lee Service Co. attended the Peoria meeting. All are from Oregon.

Feed Service Men Attend Dixon Meet

A feed meeting of service men sponsored by the Oelwein Chemical Co., and conducted by the field and sales managers, was held in Dixon last Saturday, when profitable feeding methods for all types of livestock and poultry under present business and seasonal conditions was discussed. O. G. Flamm of Dixon, district manager, said it was one of the largest meetings ever held in this area. "The mid-western farmer has made a tremendous improvement in efficient feeding in the past decade," Mr. Flamm said. "He is mixing and feeding a more economical ration today than ever before. In fact, he is getting better results in the way of production and at lower feeding costs." The company anticipates 1937 will be one of the banner years of its 26 years of operation.

There is a tendency to give some little gratuity along with thanks for extra service and soon this comes to be the custom in all public places, even for regular service. Will Rogers said he was troubled about whom to tip when he first went to Europe but soon found the thing to do was to "tip anybody who did not have a gold crown on his head." Were he living now he might find that even that rule had its exceptions.

BETTER FAIR IS PROMISED LEE COUNTY IN 1938

Association Meets Here To Launch Improved Show Next Year

A bigger and better Lee county fair and horse show are promised for 1938. At a meeting of directors and members of the fair association and department heads in Dixon last Thursday evening it was found sentiment was unanimous for an improved fair next year, and preliminary steps were taken to set in motion the machinery for organizing the big show.

Members of the association expressed the opinion that the support given the enlarged fair and horse show last summer at the municipal airport warrants operation on a much larger scale in 1938. Premium lists are to be revised in accordance with this idea and to give prospective exhibitors an opportunity to plan their entries well in advance of the fair the premium book is to be issued much earlier than usual.

Another step designed to improve the character of the exhibits is an effort to arrange an early meeting of the heads of all county fairs and horse shows in this section of Illinois to iron out the problem of conflicting dates. Lee county fair officials indicated they would be willing to change the dates of their show if necessary to prevent a conflict.

It was pointed out that when two or three shows are booked for the same general locality on the same dates some of the shows are certain to miss a few of the best attractions, but when the dates are not in conflict all of the shows may obtain the good attractions.

Dates for the next Lee county show will not be determined until after this meeting, it was announced.

Countywide Rat Drive Planned November 22, 23

City officials of Dixon and other villages of Lee county have been invited by the Lee county Farm Bureau to join with rural communities of the county in a general campaign for the eradication of rats to be undertaken November 22 and 23. The bureau is sponsoring the campaign in co-operation with the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture and it will be under the direction of G. C. Oederkirk, federal district agent, and C. E. Yale, county farm adviser.

To eradicate rats in city and village dumps, a special treatment costing each town about $10 is to be provided. City and village residents, as well as farm folks, likewise are asked to join the campaign, and to all of these will be available a sure-shot rat eradicator which is to be sold at cost.

Packages containing three types of red squill with meat, meal and fish bases will be distributed throughout the county at 35 cents a package. Distribution agencies are to be set up in the different communities for the campaign, and the poison will be ready for distribution on November 22, with a cleanup campaign the following day.

Red squill is deadly to no animals other than rats and is not dangerous to use. Animals eating rats which have been killed by this mixture will not be injured. The red squill causes paralysis of the respiratory organs of a rat. The bait should be spread late in the day. It requires from four hours to four days to kill a rat by this method.

The farm adviser said rats are plentiful this season on farms and in urban communities and are causing so much damage that the Farm Bureau decided to obtain the aid of federal authorities in the campaign to exterminate them.

A pair of wrens, near London, Tex., made their nest under an auto's seat and hatched out six babies, in spite of the fact that the car was driven three miles to town and back daily. The parent birds usually waited at the farm until the car returned with the nest.
